(b) whether it is a fact that a large number of decoders imported for the purpose are gathering dust in the godowns of the Electronics Trade and Technological Development Corporation (ET&T);

(c) if so, what is the number of decoders imported, the cost thereof and the country from which imported;

(d) what is the number of decoders put to use in private and Government Offices; and

(e) whether Government propose to discontinue the Intext Service?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY AND IN THE DEPARTMENTS OF OCEAN DEVELOPMENT, ATOMIC ENERGY, ELECTRONICS, AND SPACE (SHRI SHIVRAJ PATIL): (a) No, Sir. The response to the service has, however, been less than what was anticipated.

(b) and (c) Due to non-availability of indigenous teletext decoders at the time of introduction of teletex service of Doordarshan, it was decided to import 10,500 set-top decoders with modification kits during November, 1985 through ET&T from M/s Sofrotev, a French Government undertaking at the landed cost of Rs. 2.64 crores approximately.

(d) So far, ET&T has sold 252 nos. of teletext decoders to various parties as listed in enclosed Statement. (See below) In addition out of 400 decoders received as a gift by Doordarshan from M/s Sofrotev, about 130 have been installed at various offices.

(e) No, Sir. Several steps have been taken to make the information content of the service more useful up-to-date and reliable. Some other steps are under implementation. Improvement in a service of this nature is a continuous process.
